

Post-service Conflict of Interest Declaration for Current and Former Public Servants (Ontario Provincial Police) Guide

Conflict of Interest Rules

The conflict of interest rules for public servants in the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) are set out in Ontario Regulation \(O. Reg.\) 381/07. These rules broadly prohibit conduct that could result in a conflict between the interest of a public servant and that of the Crown.

Post-service Activity Conflict of Interest Rules

Rules that apply to the post-service activity of former OPP employees are noted in Part II of O. Reg. 381/07. This form is for the use of current or former OPP employees who are planning/contemplating post-service activity that may be affected by these rules.

Submission of Form

The completed form must be submitted to your ethics executive according to the list below. Note that current public servants should submit the form to your post-service ethics executive.

Public Servant	Ethics Executive (Post-service)
Former OPP employee (or current OPP employee planning/contemplating post-service activity)	Public Service Commission (PostServiceCOI@ontario.ca)
Former Secretary of the Cabinet or deputy minister	Integrity Commissioner

What happens after this completed form is submitted?

1. You may be contacted for clarification and/or to provide additional information.
2. Other individuals may also be contacted to verify information and/or for additional information.
3. The ethics executive will usually issue a written determination. The determination may include directions to address a conflict of interest or potential conflict of interest.
4. In some instances, your ethics executive may refer the matter to the Integrity Commissioner.
5. Public and former public servants must comply with directions issued by the ethics executive or the Integrity Commissioner.

For More Information

Consult your HR advisor. For OPP employees, consult Career Development Bureau or visit the OPP Connection website for Conflict of Interest information. OPP employees can also contact PostServiceCOI@ontario.ca for additional information.
